Other activities and interests (academic and non-academic)

I have been involved by the supervisor of my Master's thesis, professor Raimondo Cubeddu (University of Pisa) in the proofreading of the Italian translation of some essays of Carl Menger (C. Menger, Scambio, Valore e Capitale. Scritti su Adam Smith, ed. by Raimondo Cubeddu, Milan, IBL, 2019). Although my main research interest has been in the History of Contemporary Economics and Social Sciences, with a focus on the development of mathematical economics and Game Theory and the latter's adoption in Political Science, to a lesser degree, I also worked on political philosophy topics (libertarian and normative liberal political philosophy).

My non-academic interests include Military History (especially the Napoleonic Era, the American Civil War, First and Second World Wars), Byzantine History, and the History of Mathematics.

Besides, I did voluntary work at the FAI (Fondo Ambiente Italiano), an Italian no-profit foundation that aims to protect Italy's historical heritage.
